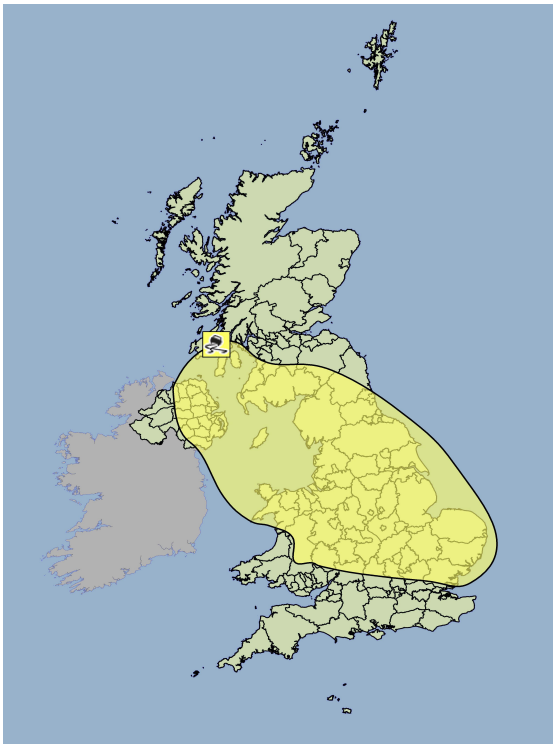
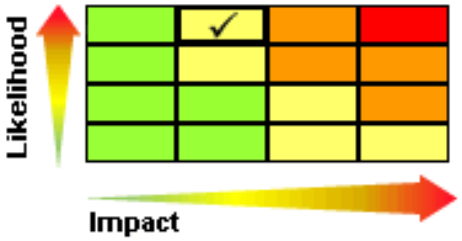
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Any further snowfall through Sunday and Sunday night is expected to be light and is not expected to result in any additional disruption. However snow lying in many areas will melt by day to refreeze overnight leading to icy patches developing. In addition drifting of this lying snow in the strong to gale force winds will affect some roads, especially over high ground.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 17:00 on Sun, 24th Mar 2013 until 09:00 on Mon, 25th Mar 2013

Lying snow in many areas will melt on roads and pavements by day, refreezing by night to give icy patches. Also, snow blowing off fields in strong to gale force winds will affect some roads throughout Sunday and Sunday night, especially over high ground.

The public should be aware of the potential for disruption to travel due to icy patches and snow blowing back onto roads.
